

GREAT FIGHT NOW GOING ON

Advices From The Far East Point To A Decisive Engagement As Scheduled For Today.

RUSSIANS ARE REPULSED SUNDAY

Tried To Surprise The Japs' Outpost, But Were Driven Off With Heavy Loss Very Easily.

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)

Tokio, July 18.—The Japanese destroyer Iyatori captured a Port Arthur junk bearing mail bound for Che Foo. Among the papers were valuable letters dealing with the naval and military situation at Port Arthur.

Tokio, July 18.—General Kuroki reports that two divisions of Russians made a desperate assault on the Japanese position at Moten Ling yesterday at dawn. They were repulsed and pursued by the Japanese as far as Kun Tea Puetzu. The casualties were not given.

Decisive Battle

London, July 18.—From the fragments of news more or less reliable permitted to come through from Manchuria it is difficult to see how a decisive battle can much longer be delayed. With two great armies in constant touch and with fierce outpost fighting of daily occurrence, over a front nearly 100 miles long, a general collision must soon occur. Experts are puzzled over the Japanese plan of campaign and apparently the Russian commanders are as much in the dark as are the home observers.

It was confidently expected that an attack would have been made by this time on Tachikiao and the Russians expected it. It now appears, however, that the army under Oka has swept around to the west of the Russian position, and is threatening Kropatkin's right flank from the rear, as Nodan and Kuroki threaten him on the left flank.

"It seems to be the idea of the Japanese commanders to cut off Kropatkin somewhere above Hail Cheng," said a high British military officer yesterday, "and compel him to fight with absolutely no chance for retreat."

The landing of a Japanese force at Pigeon Bay is the most important movement noted from Port Arthur. The Japanese campaign there is marked by the same thoroughness that has characterized all her movements. She evidently does not propose to attack until her future is so overwhelming there is no chance for failure. How soon that will be only the Japanese commander knows.

Chernomoretz Leaves Black Sea

London, July 18.—The correspondent of the London Daily Standard cables that the Russian guardship Chernomoretz passed through the Bosphorus from the Black Sea Sunday morning. The Chernomoretz is a gun vessel belonging to the Black Sea fleet and carries two eight-inch guns, one six-inch gun and seven quick firing and machine guns. She is equipped with two torpedo tubes and carries a crew of 160.

Stubborn Fighting Near Liao Lang

Liao Yang, July 18.—Kuroki is marching in force on the railroad between this place and Hail Cheng. At least 10,000 Japanese, with a number of batteries were engaged all day with the Russian force sent to stop them. There was continuous fighting, the Russians consisting mainly of Cossacks and horse artillery, stubbornly contesting every foot of the ground. The Japanese were too strong and pressed forward, gaining ground slowly. It is the evident purpose of the Japanese to strike the railroad about Chang Ling Sze. Reinforcements are being hurried to the Russian column both from this place and Hail Cheng.

Flank Movement

St. Petersburg, July 18.—It is reported a Japanese regiment is making a flank march southward so rapidly that Kuroki's forces are obliged to dispose of their food stores, selling them cheaply to the natives. The point where they are concentrating is not clear.

London, July 18.—Russia seems bent on defying the powers in the matter of sending the Black Sea fleet through the Dardanelles in direct violation of the treaty of Berlin.

Last week two steamers of the Russian volunteer fleet, the ted to pass through the Dardanelles without protest from Turkey or the powers. The steamers apparently were in the merchant service.

Once in the Mediterranean, however, both steamers mounted heavy guns and quick firers and proceeded to the Red Sea, where they proceeded to stop and search every passing neutral steamer.

Sunday Russia threw aside subterfuge and sent the guardship Chernomoretz through the Bosphorus into the Sea of Marmora.

Entire Fleet Will Go

The Chernomoretz is a gun vessel belonging to the Black Sea fleet and carries two eight-inch guns, one six-inch gun and seven quick firing and machine guns. It is equipped with two torpedo tubes and carries a crew of 160.

If Turkey permits Russia to send this gunboat through the Dardanelles there is little doubt in diplomatic circles that the entire Black Sea fleet will be sent after it, one by one.

Already Russia's open defiance of the treaty has caused irritation, both in London and Berlin. The action of the Russian ships in holding up a German steamer in the Red Sea last Friday and taking from it many sacks of mail destined for commercial houses in Japan is being severely commented on in Berlin.

British Press Is Aroused

Almost without exception the newspapers in editorials or otherwise comment upon the Russian volunteer fleet steamers passing the Dardanelles, and the government is urged to take action, especially for the protection of British commerce in the Red Sea and adjoining waters.

The Daily Telegraph, concluding an outspoken protest written with traces of government inspiration, says:

"There is a limit to complaisance when neutral commerce under the British flag is molested in a way to which we have been for a century and a half unused."

Special dispatches from Berlin echo the feeling of irritation that exists in London.

British Steamers Held Up

A dispatch from Aden to the Daily Mail says that the captain of the British steamer Walpara reports that the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg signaled him to stop by firing across the bows of his vessel on July 15 while twenty miles off Jebel Zagar, in the Red sea.

The Russians examined the papers of the Walpara and declared that they would hold the ship as a prize.

The captain protested and was taken on board the St. Petersburg, where he gave the Russian officers a guarantee that there were neither arms nor ammunition on board the Walpara destined for Japan. The vessel was detained for four hours and then allowed to proceed.

The captain confirms the report that the Peninsular and Oriental company's steamer Malacca was seized in the Red sea on July 16 by the St. Petersburg, on the ground that it carried arms and munitions of war for the Japanese government.

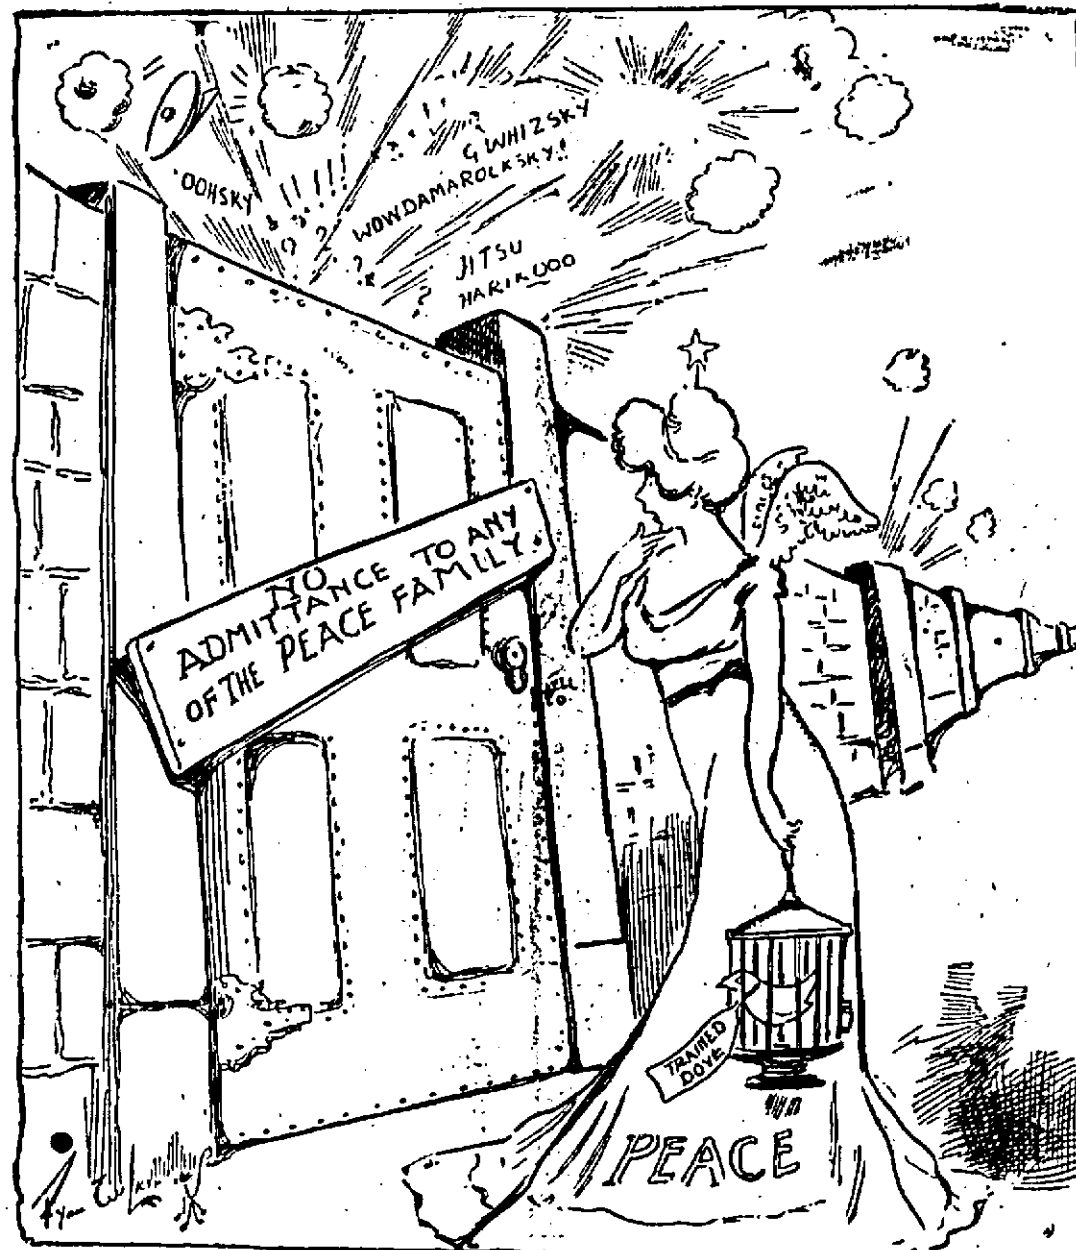

Japan Ready to Protest

The Tokyo correspondent of the Standard says the Japanese are inquiring whether France will allow the steamers of the Russian volunteer fleet to coal at her ports, now that they openly have assumed the character of armed vessels. The Jiji Shimpu says it hopes that France will preserve neutrality, and that Great Britain will see that Turkey does not aid Russia by allowing vessels of the volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanelles. The Jiji Shimpu declares that Great Britain is bound under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance to prevent such assistance being given.

"So far as I am concerned, when that tribunal decides which of the two conventions held in Madison was legal, and which is the regular party, I shall, as a law abiding citizen and a loyal republican, give that ticket my hearty support."

"I am not authorized to speak for others, but I think the great majority of republicans feel just as I do about the situation and will loyally support the ticket which the supreme court decides to be the regular one."

Senator Stout was one of the four delegates at large to the republican national convention elected at the gymnasium convention in Madison, the other three being Gov. La Follette, Isaac Stephenson, and W. D.

ANOTHER VESSEL STOPPED TODAY

Russian Cruiser Demands Mail From The British Steamer Persia.

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)

Aden, Arabia, July 18.—The British steamer Persia, bound from Calcutta for London, was forcibly detained today in the Red sea by a Russian steamer the Sulevsk, which confiscated two boxes of Persia's mail and transferred her mail, which was destined for Japan, and which was taken from the North German-Lloyd liner Prince Heinrich last week.

PROFESSIONAL OR AMATEUR PLAYER

Harvey Schofield of The University Football Team May Be a Professional.

(Special by The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., July 17.—The charge is made in Madison that Harvey H. Schofield of Augusta, a star football and baseball player of the University of Wisconsin, is playing professional baseball with the Milwaukee American association team, having been signed by Manager Cantillon, and that the player is expected to play football at the university this fall. It is commonly admitted that Schofield has dabbled in professional ball for years. He was "attracted" to the Wisconsin university by the material-seeking managers.

During the early part of the last football season he played football under the name of John Harvey, for the reason that Schofield was known by other colleges to have played professional baseball during the summer vacations. The managers asked the newspaper correspondents to use the name Harvey because the parents of the young man objected to him playing football and he was needed on the team. From the university this spring he went to Racine and other places to play, what was called semi-professional baseball. Chicago people put Manager Cantillon after him and it is understood he has now been signed by the association team manager under the name of John L. Harvey. Some variety athletes here deny that Schofield and Harvey are the same student, but there was no student here in athletics by the name of Harvey and the Milwaukee manager has announced that his new find, Harvey, is a University of Wisconsin student.

PRIMARY ENTERS THE PROHIBITION

J. B. Smith of Madison Wants This Clause In The Prohibition Platform.

Madison, Wis., July 17.—Attorney J. B. Smith, a former candidate on the prohibition state ticket and a leader of that party, says that when the convention of the cold water people convenes in this city a primary election clause will be inserted in its platform. Mr. Smith declares that practically all prohibitionists in the state of Wisconsin are in sympathy with the reform movements of Governor La Follette, but that they could not place him at the head of their ticket because it would injure the party. Mr. Smith claims the distinction of being the father originator of the primary election movement. He says that four years before the governor began to advocate a change in the caucus system he contributed an article to a New York Journal on the same subject. Mr. Smith declares, however, that his idea of primary election differs materially from that of the governor. He said that he is in favor of having the names of all candidates appear on the ballot without designating their party affiliations and that when the voter enters the election booth to mark his ballot he shall insert after the name of the man for whom he votes the name of the party to which he belongs.

As between polygamy and divorce, Congressman Bourke Cochran believes in the former.

RACE SUICIDE IS NOW DISCOVERED

School Census At Madison Shows That There Are 177 Less Children Than A Year Ago.

(Special by The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., July 17.—Race suicide is an established fact in Madison, the capital city of Wisconsin. According to the school census completed Saturday there are 177 less children in the city between the ages of four and twenty than there were a year ago. This decrease is appalling in view of the fact that the city is growing rapidly.

FORMER POLICEMAN TRIES TO KILL FAMILY

Puts Two Bullets In His Wife's Head, But Revolver Misses Fire When He Snaps It At Daughter.

Chicago, Ill., July 18.—Surrounded by his four children, former Policeman John Moriarty shot and fatally wounded his wife. After shooting his wife Moriarty turned the revolver on his 9-year-old daughter Anne and snapped it in her face, but the cartridge failed to explode. Turning, he dealt his 16-year-old daughter Mamie a blow which felled her to the floor. He then made his escape through a rear door.

A year ago Moriarty and his wife separated because of his alleged liking for strong drink. Recently a reconciliation was arranged by the children, and since that time they have been living happily together. Sunday night Moriarty returned to his home under the influence of liquor, according to the police. His wife remonstrated with him as they stood talking in the parlor. Mrs. Moriarty walked to the window, and while her attention was turned her husband stepped into an adjoining room and secured a revolver. Approaching her, he leveled it at her head and fired. The first bullet tore its way through her ear. The second crashed through her head and imbedded itself in the door.

Turning to his daughter, who stood in the doorway screaming in terror at the tragedy she had witnessed, he thrust the revolver in her face and, with an oath, pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode, and his oldest daughter, with a cry of terror, sprang forward and bravely clutched the maddened man's arm. He shook her off and struck her in the face with the butt of the weapon. She fell senseless to the floor.

The three other children ran terror-stricken from the room. Moriarty, with the smoking revolver still clutched in his hand, fled from the scene by way of the back door.

SECOND WEEK OF THE STRIKE

President Donnelly Is On Hand To Have Conference With The Allied Trade Unions.

RIOTS OF SUNDAY ADDED HORROR

More Police Are Now On The Scene of Activity—Every Means Taken To Continue Work—Import Workmen.

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)

Chicago, July 18.—The second week of the great packing house strike opened this morning with no immediate prospects of settlement. Both sides are more determined than ever to fight to the bitter end. President Donnelly arrived from St. Louis and went into conference with the leaders of the allied trades at the yards. A sympathetic strike is likely to be the next move. A hundred non-union men were escorted into Armour's plant this morning by the police force at the yards, which was augmented by 120 men as a result of yesterday's rioting and the prospect of violence.

Union Yields A Point

This order was temporarily rescinded yesterday afternoon after a conference between General Manager A. G. Leonard of the Union Stockyards and Transit company and Secretary Call and Vice-Presidents Sterling and Fiebersch of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

Manager Leonard explained the effect of the strike upon the company's business, and after a few hours' consultation it was agreed that the live stock handlers and weighers should perform their usual duties until the result of today's peace efforts is known.

Big Sum Is Involved

It is estimated that there are 10,000 cattle, 30,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep in the pens of the Union Stockyards and Transit company at present. This cost per year for yarding and feeding cattle alone is 1 per head and for sheep and hogs 50 cents a head. Should the company be prevented from distributing the live stock now on hand the loss would be, it is estimated, about 40,000 a day.

A committee of the firemen, officers and water tenders will call on the packers to-day and urge them to assist in bringing about another conference to agree on a basis for arbitrating the differences between themselves and the butchers. This union has a grievance also, its desire being for higher wages and better working conditions.

Union officials say that a sympathetic strike would deal a hard blow to the packers. Unskilled labor, they say, can do the work after a fashion in the killing plants, but none but skilled men can care for the refrigerating and other machinery.

Two Fights Occur

Seven men were injured in clashes between union and nonunion men Sunday. There were two fights and riot calls were sent in for each. Aside from the two fights it was quiet through the stockyards district. Nearly all of the striking workmen had passed the day at picnics, and the headquarters of the strikers were closed. Within the enclosure of the yards nonunion men sat in the shade of box cars under police protection, and no threats reached them. Saloons along Ashland avenue were generally quiet, and liquor was not sold except over the bar. At night reserve patrol wagons and extra details of police were dismissed to await further developments.

At St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—Frank Lazacot, a foreman of the Swift plant, was badly beaten by the strikers this morning as the result of an argument with a picket. Sheriff Grissom notified Gov. Vasant that the situation is beyond his control.

At Omaha

Omaha, Neb., July 18.—There is no change in the strike situation and the best of order prevails. The union leaders have announced that unless arbitration is resumed in Chicago every craftsman in the packing plants will be called out.

Many Cattle

Kansas City, July 18.—With nine thousand head of cattle in the yards today, none of the packers would buy. The strikers claim the packers are unable to handle their purchases. Everything is quiet.

Issues Injunction

St. Louis, July 18.—Judge Rohrer at Belleville last night issued an injunction restraining the strikers from interfering in the operation of packing plants at East St. Louis.

MOTHER SAVES BABE BY CHOKING RATTLER

Frantic Woman Crushes Out Snake's Life After It Had Bitten Her Little One.

Des Moines, Ia., July 18.—Seeing the life of her 3-year-old daughter in danger, Mrs. Robert Benson, wife of a farmer near Altoona, attacked and killed with her bare hands a rattlesnake three feet long. The fight was terrible and the life of the baby, which had been bitten, was saved only by prompt medical attention.

Mrs. Benson was at work when she heard her little one prattling something about a rattler. Going to where the baby was on the grass, she saw the huge snake in front of it. The tail gave its customary warning and as the little one innocently attempted to slap the snake it plunged and buried its fangs in the little bare knee of the child.

ACME MINE SHAFT IS BURNED

Sparks from Switch Engine Cause Damage of $35,000.

Streator, Ill., July 18.—Sparks from a switch engine set fire to the timbers at the Acme coal shaft and caused a loss of $35,000. Twenty-eight miles below perished from suffocation, and the entire works are a total loss, including a splendid washing plant, shaker, hopper and scales. The engines and boilers were saved. The shaft was sunk twelve years ago and gave employment to 300 miners. It is owned by Fairbank & Atkinson, who maintain a Chicago office. The firm was distributing pay envelopes for two weeks' pay when the alarm was sounded. They will probably sink a new shaft.

LOSES REASON OVER POLITICS

Wealthy Iowa Man, a Supporter of Parker, Declared Insane.

Des Moines, Ia., July 18.—As a result of excitement over politics induced by attendance at the Democratic national convention in St. Louis, R. E. Morely, a prominent capitalist and bank president of Lake City, has lost his reason. Morely was given a hearing before the board of commissioners for the insane at Fort Dodge and sent to the asylum. He is a loyal supporter of Judge Alton B. Parker for president and joy over his nomination unbalanced his mind.

STOUT SAYS HE WAITS DECISION

LaFollette Backer Says He Will Abide by The Supreme Court Decision Now.

(Special by The Gazette.)

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—State Senator Stout of Menomonie, Wis., was in St. Paul for a few hours Saturday afternoon. When asked concerning the status of the fight made by the La Follette party in Wisconsin he seemed disinclined to discuss it.

"The truth is," he said, "I know but little of the situation beyond what I learn from the newspapers. Politics is not of absorbing interest to me."

CROP PROSPECTS MUCH BRIGHTER

CORN IS DOING REMARKABLY
WELL FOR SEASON

OAT CROP NOT SO GOOD

Pastures Are Drying Up—Rye Harvest
Is In—Barley Is Good Crop—
Poultry Doing Well.

With the exception of oats and pastures the present outlook for Rock county is for excellent crops this year. The hot weather of the past week has dried up the oat crop to a certain extent and pastures have also suffered. However, this deficit has been made up in the rye and corn crops, both of which have advanced wonderfully. Corn is coming along rapidly, much more so than was expected last Monday and indications point to a bumper crop this year as compared with the past two crops. It looks clean and thrifty, and rapidly progressing. The few patches of wheat are doing nicely. As has been stated before Rock county is not a wheat producing county, but the few patches are in excellent condition.

The rye harvest has been completed and the crop was an excellent one. The berries had formed perfectly and the straw was in good condition. There is a good sale for rye straw at the paper mills at Rockton and Beloit and the rye crops are usually confined to the lower tier of townships where it is an easy haul to the market. This year there is a larger acreage of barley than ever. The harvest has commenced, several patches having been cut last Friday and Saturday. While the acreage has increased the yield will not be as large as last year, though the farmers may be able to make money off their crop this year. Bright barley is worth from a quarter to a half per cent an acre more than bleached barley and it will be remembered that while last year's crop was large the barley was mostly bleached before it could be properly handled. The indications this year point to a bright crop and this means more money to the grower. The hot days have been ripening the grain prematurely.

Oats are not up to the average. The hot days have seemed to stop the lengthening out and the straw will be short. This has also tended to ripen the grain prematurely and while on heavy soils this has not been a disadvantage, on the light soils it seems to have dried up the crop and a poor yield is expected. However, the crop is above the average of last year and where the heavy soil is the berry is rapidly developing and is good. Ten days ago it looked as though the crop would not be harvested before the first of August; now they will begin cutting this week.

Potatoes are good. Last week they brought fifty cents a bushel and were large and well formed. The later crop seems to be lacking moisture but rains may bring it up to the normal. The potato average in Rock county will, however, be better this year, as more acreage has been put in. It seems as though after a year of scarcity there is always an increased acreage in the particular crop the scarcity came in.

Fruits are good. The strawberry crop is completed. On the whole it has been good. Raspberries are now on the market—both red and black. Next week the blackberries commence. There is some talk that this last crop will not be as large as usual owing to the fact the hard winter killed off the bushes, but they look thriving and a good crop is expected. Cherries had a good crop and currants were better and cheaper than ever before, although not in the old-time quantities.

Apples are good. Early in the spring there seemed to be a small insect which was getting into the little apples and caused them to fall from the trees. The wet weather of ten days ago seemed to stop this and also to help harden the apples so the outlook now is for a good yield above the average years. This is particularly true of the early varieties. One feature of the apple crop this year was the presence of a small worm in the new growth which seemed to kill it off. This has puzzled the growers exceedingly and none of them seem to have been able to discover what the worm was. But we have known of this pest to be certain they were present.

Stock are good. Stock has suffered during the past week from the drying up of the pastures. Cows are doing poorly and hence the yield of milk is less than earlier in the spring. The flies have come and are worrying the cattle which with the lack of food and hot weather has caused them to lose flesh rapidly. Sheep are doing well and poultry is in excellent shape. Horses are poor and they do not seem to get sufficient nourishment from the oats of the past year.

Eleven Year Old Son of James Smith,
Formerly of This City, Passed Away in Chicago Saturday.

Charles Smith, eleven-year-old son of James Smith who formerly resided on Chatham street in this city, died in Chicago Saturday as the result of injuries received in the railroad wreck at Glenwood. AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS

News Notes From Various Sources of Great Interest to the Workingman.

Illinois holds second place in the number of wage earners in mines, the yearly average being 40,623. It holds the sixth place in the value of product, being outranked by Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and Colorado.

All train dispatches on the San Luis division of the National Railroad, in Mexico, have drawn up a joint petition to the management asking for an increase in wages.

Nearly 1,500 employees of the Pullman company have been laid off at the Pullman car shops. All trades are affected. Officials of the company assert that it is necessary to cut down expenses and that the orders on hand do not require so large a force.

The working force of the Pennsylvania railroad's operating department has been decreased eleven per cent, and all other departments have undergone a five per cent. reduction.

Leligh Valley Railroad firemen have been notified that a slight increase in wages has been granted.

Negotiations between the master bakers and the journeymen at New Haven, Conn., for a new agreement are nearly completed. All points contained in the agreement of last year have been adopted, except those relating to pay for overtime.

MOHNS CLAIMED HE WAS SANDBAGGED

Told Judge Filled That Herman Liebert Tried to Strike Him With a Rock Tied Up in a Bandana.

On complaint of Frank C. Mohns, Herman Liebert appeared in municipal court Saturday to answer to the charge of assault and battery. Mohns claimed that Liebert attempted to strike him with a rock tied up in a blue bandana handkerchief and exhibited the murderous looking weapon which he alleged he had taken away from his antagonist. Liebert admitted that he had the "sand-bag" in his possession but asserted that he had made it for the purpose of protecting himself against vicious dogs. On the defendant's plea of guilty he was fined $50 and costs by the court. He paid the fine and costs.

TRADE IS QUIET, BUT HOPEFUL.

Labor and Crops Figure as Uncertain Factors in Situation.

New York, Sunday, July 17. Diverse movements in trade, industry and speculation give an irregular appearance to the general business situation. Distributive trade and industry is still quiet and even dull, awaiting clearer views of the crop outlook. Damage to the winter wheat crop by heavy rains is admitted, though alleged to be exaggerated. Disorganization in the meat slaughter industry has followed a strike, which, if not settled, as now seems likely, contains much power for evil. All meat prices have been advanced and cattle shipments checked. Railway gross earnings for the fiscal year will show an increase over the best previous years, but net receipts are less clearly defined, with the question whether an increase or decrease will be shown in doubt. The general undercurrent is one of confidence, good results being looked for by the business world from an expected large volume of fall trade.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending July 14 number 203, against 172 last week, 173 in the like week in 1903, 174 in 1902, 208 in 1901 and 202 in 1900. In Canada failures for the week number eighteen, as against fourteen last week and thirteen in this week a year ago.

TREND OF WEEK ENCOURAGING.

Confidence in Trade Future Grows Despite the Meat Strike.

New York, R. G. Dunn & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade conditions are gradually becoming more normal after the conclusion of political conventions, when a new disturbing factor appeared in the packing-house strike. This enhanced prices of meats and added many thousands to the already large army of unemployed, weakened the purchasing power of the people still further. Aside from this unfavorable development, the news of the week contained much encouragement. Crop prospects improved and the general level prices for farm products promises a large return to agriculturists, which means better business for all industries. Confidence grows with the crops, retailers showing more disposition to prepare for the future as the season advances, with no serious setback to the farms. A few manufacturing lines are more active, although there is still much idleness at the shops and mills.

Failures this week numbered 225 in the United States, against 213 last year and twenty in Canada, compared with sixteen a year ago.

WILL DIG DITCH TO DRAIN MARSH

PLANS FOR A LARGE DRAINAGE
SYSTEM MADE

WILL RECLAIM HALF TOWNSHIP

Towns of Union, Porter, Magnolia and Center Will Be Affected By The Plans.

Eight years ago the county board made an appropriation for the digging of a large drainage ditch in the towns of Center, Porter, Union and Magnolia to reclaim almost a half township of land which is now covered by what is termed the Evansville marsh. After four of the sixteen miles had been completed the contractors found that the ditch was filling up as rapidly as it was dug and the county board paid them a bonus to abandon their work, thankful to get out of a bad fix as easily as possible. During the coming autumn the farmers whose property will be benefited by this ditch have banded together to complete the work and it is hoped that this time the obstacles can be overcome.

The great trouble with the work eight years ago was the fact that the quicksands abounded at the bottom of the proposed ditch and that as fast as the top layer of earth was cleared away it filled again. The history of the regions around Evansville, in fact through the whole of Rock county, point to the fact that there were many little lakes in this region. The results of the sweeping down of the great glaciers had made little hollows which filled with water and which came from their melting and then gradually dried up as time progressed. There is no doubt in the minds of scientists that the Evansville marsh was at one time a lake, the outlet of which was the Four Mile creek. It is to reclaim this vast area that the present ditch is to be dug.

Increased Value.

Sixteen years ago a goodly portion of the town of Center was covered by flags and reed grass, where now the finest crops in the county are grown. Land was then worth ten dollars an acre and even less which is today worth forty-five and fifty. Land values have increased nearly two hundred per cent within fifteen years in many localities. While this district is called the Evansville marsh it lies southeast of the town of that name and is mostly in the towns of Center, Magnolia and Porter. If this present plan is successful it will mean that hundreds of acres of what are now almost worthless marsh lands will be drained and made into the finest kind of tillable lands.

The Route

One great obstacle to be met and overcome aside from the quicksands is the fall for the water. The natural watershed following the Four Mile creek is but four feet to the mile and as there are sixteen miles to be drained, and the natural watershed is as crooked as a ram's horn it will mean much engineering skill. The former ditch was six feet at the top and three to four feet at the bottom with the depth according to the law of the land. As a general route the Four Mile creek was followed, although where long bends were made by the creek the ditch ran straight across the elbows.

Present Plans

The present plans are for the work to be done by the property owners whose property is vitally interested. It is thought that by packing the sides of the ditch with some hard material, perhaps cement, where the quicksands are, this obstacle can be overcome. The fall when the waters have dried off will be the best time to do the work and at present the promoters of the plan are making up the schedules of taxation for work and later will advertise for contracts for the work to be done. It is expected that it will be commenced as soon as the fall work is out of the way and will be partially completed before the frost is too heavy to work.

Follow Creek

The present plans are for the course of the ditch to follow the Four Mile creek and empty into Rock river above the Four Mile bridge. The area to be drained is partially in the towns of Union and Magnolia, but the greater portion in the towns of Porter and Center and extends through Center into the town of Jamesville.

TIMOTHY HAY WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Spark From Locomotive Is Believed to Have Started Blaze on D.
J. C. Stark Farm.

Timothy hay was half destroyed by fire on the farm of D. Q. Stark near Tiffany destroyed twenty-five acres of growing timothy hay on Saturday. A spark from a passing locomotive is believed to have started the blaze. Efforts to check the flames proved useless. A wide road-way prevented the fire from reaching the farm buildings. The hay was to have been cut today and the growth was said to have been one of the finest ones south of Jamesville.

HUNGARIAN BAND ON TUESDAY NEXT

Management of "Down The Pike"
Secure Noted Coterie of World
Famous Musicians.

Another attraction has been added to the entertainment of "Down the Pike," scheduled for the Mississippi golf links' famous reproduction a week from Tuesday. Manager McKey has just closed a contract with the world-famous Hungarian orchestra, which has played before all uncounted heads of America for several seasons past. The orchestra will arrive in the city on Tuesday and will give a special concert both afternoon and evening at the golf grounds. They will leave on a late train for St. Louis where they are under contract for the rest of the season. One of the features of the coming "Pike" is the music, which will be furnished by the Hungarian band of this city. Through the kindness of the members of the organization the band has donated its services and their concert on the porch of the clubhouse will be a decided feature of the evening. The grounds are to be lighted and the "Pike" proper will be one blaze. One of the new shows which will be seen is the famous "Over and Under the Sea." This attraction is most unique. The high art side show, an annex of the "Pike," promises much amusement. Then there is the Turkish palace. This with its wonders of the Orient and the dancing of Allah-Allah, the weird music of the mystic times of the country it represents, and fabled beauties of the household of the sultan, all will make a most pleasing sight. The sinking of the Russian battleship in Port Arthur harbor with Admiral Togo and his wife and crew of sailors is realistic to say the least. The fireworks from this wonderful reproduction will be furnished by the Payne Company people, famed throughout the world. Then there is the museum of antiquity, the high diver, the negro plantation singer, the funny little donkey for the children, the ship of the desert—the camel, the old-fashioned country dance and the wonders of old Vienna. The Pike is to be a success and to make it a success everyone should plan to visit it. It is open to the public afternoon and evening and will be well worth seeing.

MANY SPECIES OF THE PESKY FLIES

Stable With One Horse Will Supply a Myriad of The Awful
Pests.

The dreaded and much feared flies have struck Jamesville. Word comes from different parts of the county that they are bothering cattle, and Jamesville horse owners can tell you of the bother they are to the horses in the city. The veterans of the Spanish war can tell another story of the awful black pest. According to Dr. L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the department of agriculture, there are several species of flies which are commonly found in homes, although but one of these should be called the house fly proper. This is a medium sized grayish fly, with its mouth parts bent out at the tip for sucking up liquid substances. It breeds in manure and decaying filth, and is found in nearly all parts of the world. On account of the contamination of its mouth parts the house fly cannot bite, yet no impression is stronger in the minds of most people, than that this insect does occasionally bite. This impression is due to the frequent occurrence in houses of another fly, which may be called the stable fly, and which, while closely resembling the house fly, so closely, in fact, as to deceive any one but an entomologist, differs from it in the important particular that its mouth parts are formed for piercing the skin.

Another species, commonly called the cluster fly, is a very frequent visitor of houses, particularly in the spring and fall. This fly is somewhat larger than the house fly, with a dark colored smooth abdomen and a sprinkling of yellowish hairs. It is not so active as the house fly, and, particularly in the fall, is very sluggish.

Bluebottle Variety a Meat Fly

The so-called bluebottle fly, also called the blowfly or meat fly, breeds in decaying animal material. Another species, about the size of the bluebottle, which breeds in houses, although usually in less numbers than the others, is also commonly called the bluebottle or greenbottle fly.

It is quite to be expected, as we go farther south, the house fly becomes more numerous and more troublesome. The number of generations annually increases as the season becomes longer, and with the warm climate the development of the larvae becomes more rapid. So much for a brief history of the fly. Now how to get rid of the nuisance.

A careful screening of windows and doors during the summer months, with the supplementary use of sticky fly papers, is a preventive measure against house flies known to every one, and there seems to be little hope in the near future of much relief by doing away with the breeding places.

A single stable in which a horse is kept will supply house flies for an extended neighborhood. People living in agricultural communities will probably never be rid of the pest, but in cities, with better methods of disposal of garbage and with lessening of the number of horses and horse stables consequent upon electric street railways, bicycles, and horseless carriages, the time may come, and before long, when window screens may be discarded.

The prompt gathering of horse manure, which may be variously treated or kept in a specially prepared receptacle, would greatly abate the fly nuisance, and city ordinances compelling horse owners to follow some such course are desirable. Absolute cleanliness, even under existing circumstances, will always result in a diminution of the numbers of the house fly, and in fact most household insects are less attracted to the premises of what is known as the News for the Railroad Men.

Officers of the Western railroads have voted against a proposition to recognize half-rate orders from the local county and city authorities, as requested recently by President Foreman of the county board. The railroad officials say they do not care to become parties to the dumping of paupers from Chicago in other cities and communities, and that they do not wish to give other communities a chance to rid themselves of their paupers by virtue of cheap fares.

Besides the fear of making their lines routes for county paupers, the railroad officials are fearful of the half-rate privilege being used by politicians and their friends.

At present the only charity half-rate orders that will be recognized by the agents of the western roads are those issued by the bureau of charity.

The great increase in immigration to the Southwest has caused the Santa Fe to plan the construction of a new line from Canyon City, on the Panhandle line in Texas, to Plain View, in the heart of the cattle country. The new line will be about 100 miles long and work will be started soon. During the past year the Santa Fe company has expended large sums of money in advertising the Southwest, and the result is a big influx of homeseekers.

Phil. A. Auer has been appointed general passenger and ticket agent of the Rock Island lines in Texas, with headquarters in Fort Worth. He has been traveling passenger agent for the same company with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

RIVAL FOUND FOR IRISH POTATOES

Discovery in South America of a Sweet Scented Tuber Which Is Delicious.

Rivaling the Irish potato in flavor, exceeding it in production and furnishing at the same time from its blossoms an exquisite perfume a new white potato is being exploited in France. Thornwell Haynes, United States consul at Rouen, has reported to the state department.

Mr. Haynes says that this wild aquatic vegetable was introduced from the banks of the River Mercedes, Uruguay, and distributed in France by Professor Ickel, director of the Colonial Institute of Marseilles. In its original state the tuber is very bitter but Dr. Ickel pronounced marvelous the results of four years of experiments with it.

In the same soil the yield is greatly superior to that of the ordinary potato. The Early Rose in one instance gave 3,000 pounds to the acre, the American Marvel 3,000 pounds and this new species 8,500.

Carriers of Disease Germs
We are accustomed to think of the house fly simply as a nuisance, but they are undoubtedly the carriers of the germs of typhoid fever, breeding and frequently visiting uncovered, unsecured human excreta. The enforcement, therefore, of cleanliness in stables and the obligatory building of receptacles for horse manure would seem subjects worthy of the consideration of the boards of health of our cities.

The house fly has a number of natural enemies, and the common house centipede destroys it in considerable numbers; there is a small reddish mite which frequently covers it. Its body and gradually destroys it. It is subject to the attacks of hymenopterous parasites in its larval conditions, and it is destroyed by predatory beetles at the same time.

The most effective enemy, however, is a fungus disease known as entomophila muscaria, which carries off flies in large numbers, particularly toward the end of the season. The epidemic ceases in December, and although many thousands are killed by it, the remarkable rapidity of development in the early summer months soon more than replaces the thousands thus destroyed.

EDWARD BRODERICK MET HORRIBLE FATE

Was Ground Under Wheels of Switch-
Engine Near Pumping Station Late
Saturday Afternoon.

Death in a terrible disguise awaited Switchman Edward Broderick of the Northwestern road on the sidetrack near the pumping station on South River street, Saturday night. About four o'clock, with a companion, Michael Dulla, he was riding on the foot-board of a switch engine which was going at a moderate speed. A telephone pole left there through someone's carelessness lay alongside one of the rails. No one noticed it until the projecting foot-board struck. Broderick was thrown onto the track and the wheels of the engine passed over his right leg below the knee and mangled his body in a horrible manner. The head of one of Dulla's shoes was caught and torn off permitting an almost miraculous escape from serious injury. Russell's ambulance conveyed the dying man to the Palmer Memorial hospital, where Drs. Wood, Palmer, and Farnsworth did everything in their power for him. He breathed his last at thirty-five minutes after seven. Broderick was unmarried and was about forty-six years of age. He had been employed by the Northwestern road for thirty years. One sister, Mrs. Murphy who lives on Jefferson street, is his only relative in Jamesville. The funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. The flag at the Northwestern round house was hung at half mast yesterday.

Like Beer To A Prohibitionist,

SAY HEATH & MILLIGAN mixed paint to a palmer and hear him talk against it.

AND WHY? It hurts his business—a house painted with lead and oil "as mixed by him" must be repainted in two or three years. If you use Heath & Milligan Mixed Paint it will have to be repainted in five or ten years.

IT COSTS YOU 50c per hundred square feet of surface to paint with Heath & Milligan Mixed Paint; to use lead and oil at present market price it costs 75c for same surface; which is the cheaper?

THE WEAR—Heath & Milligan Mixed Paints will wear from two to five years longer than pure lead and oil "as mixed by your painter." We prove this to you by showing you dozens of houses here in Jamesville painted with Heath & Milligan Mixed Paint.

CAN YOU THINK FOR YOURSELF?—Why not investigate? We can positively show you how to save many by using Heath & Milligan Mixed Paint.

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 25, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected John D. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin was the regular convention of the REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

JUDGE PARKER AND WALL STREET.

In February, 1903, The Wall Street Journal stated that Judge Alton B. Parker would probably be the selection of the "high finance" for the democratic nomination in opposition to President Roosevelt. That prediction has been verified. The Wall Street Journal now ventures the opinion that Judge Parker will have in the coming campaign the support, partially open but mainly concealed, of the "interests." In the hope that he will be successful in defeating Mr. Roosevelt.

The signs of this are clear and numerous. Judge Parker is supported, of course, by many democrats in Wall street because he is the democratic candidate; apart from other considerations. But he is supported, also, by the "court circular" types of newspaper which has no politics but the politics of the dollar, and the "court circular" press makes no secret of the reasons why it supports him, these reasons being, in the main, that he will not do what President Roosevelt has done and that he may possibly undo some of President Roosevelt's work. The essence of "court circular" journalism is in that it seldom acts without a motive and a motive directly connected with the interests of the "high finance." Its support of Judge Parker, therefore, is the best indication that could be desired of the attitude of the "high finance" in the matter, Judge Parker, in this campaign, is unquestionably the candidate of the "interests" as against President Roosevelt.

It may be regarded as strange that the "high finance" should support a democratic candidate in view of the things that democracy stands for, for instance, with respect to the tariff. It is only at first sight, however, that these seem strange, for the fact that no matter who is president there is very little chance for radical action by the house or senate for some time to come. The republican majority in the senate will take a considerable time to destroy, and besides, so far as tariff is concerned, the chances are that it will not become a very active issue in the near future. The currency question is all right, and with the tariff and currency removed from the sphere of practical politics, it matters very little to the "high finance" whether the president is a democrat or a republican, therefore they can safely support Judge Parker as against Mr. Roosevelt because the democratic administration if it secures the reins can accomplish very little for some time to come.

It is safe to say that while Wall street will contribute to the campaign fund of both political parties this year, the largest share of campaign money will go to Judge Parker. Very confident assertions are made by local democratic politicians that there will be any amount of "Standard Oil" money for Judge Parker. The hatred of the "high finance" for President Roosevelt is undiminished and, indeed, rather refreshed by the hope of defeating him. He is unforgotten, because he is unrepentant. It is still in Wall street as it was in February, 1903, "anything to beat Roosevelt."

FRUIT.

Exports of fruit from the United States in the fiscal year 1901 will exceed $20,000,000, against less than $2,000,000 in 1894 and less than $2,000,000 in 1884. The growth in the exportation of fruits from the United States has been very rapid during the last few years. The Department of Commerce and Labor, through its Bureau of Statistics, has issued a table showing the value of fruits and nuts imported and exported in each year from 1884 to 1901. It shows that the importations were practically 20 million dollars in value in 1884, and will in 1901 be about 22 millions, while the exports which were $1,746,418 in 1884 will be about $20,000,000 in 1901.

Apples, oranges, apricots, prunes, and raisins form the principal items in the exports of fruits. The value of the apple exportations in 1901 will amount to about 8 1/2 million dollars out of the 20 1/2 million dollars' worth of fruits exported, and of the 8 1/2 million dollars' worth of apples exported about 5 1/2 million dollars' worth was exported in the natural state and 3 million dollars' worth as dried fruit.

The exportation of prunes from the United States has grown very rapidly in recent years, the total number of pounds exported in 1898, the first year in which a record was made by the Bureau of Statistics, being, in round terms, 16 millions; in 1902, 22 millions; in 1903, 66 millions, and in 1904 will amount to about 74 millions, valued at about 3 1/2 million dollars. Germany, France, and the United Kingdom are the principal customers for this class of American fruit, the total quantity sent to Germany in the fiscal year 1903 being 18 1/2 million pounds; France, 16 millions, and the United Kingdom, 15 millions; while Belgium took nearly 5 million pounds; Netherlands nearly 4 millions, and Canada about 4 1/2 millions. Of the 66 million pounds of prunes exported in 1903, 9 millions went from San Francisco and 53 1/2 millions from New York, although they are chiefly the product of the Pacific coast.

Raisins are also becoming an important feature of the export trade in fruits, the total number of pounds of raisins exported in 1903 being 4 1/2 millions, while for the year just ended the total will be about 4 million pounds. Canada is our largest foreign customer for this product, the total quantity exported to Canada last year being over 3 million pounds. The principal port of shipment was San Francisco, from which about 1 1/2 million pounds were sent; from Detroit, three-quarters of a million pounds; from the district of North and South Dakota, a half million pounds; and from New York, a quarter of a million pounds. These shipments from the eastern ports originate, of course, on the Pacific coast. Of apricots, the total exports of which amounted last year to over 9 million pounds, 6 3/4 million pounds were exported from New York and about 2 million pounds from San Francisco.

The imports of fruits and nuts have, as already indicated, changed but little in total value, but in character they have been a material change during the last decade. Oranges, of which the total importations amounted to over 1 1/2 million dollars in 1896, will amount in 1901 to but little over half a million dollars in value of imports. Lemons, which amounted to over 5 million dollars in 1895, will amount to a little over 3 million dollars value in the importations of 1901. The bulk of the lemons come from Italy, and of oranges, chiefly from the British West Indies. Bananas form by far the largest single item in the importations of fruits and nuts, and will aggregate over 7 million dollars in the fiscal year 1901, against 4 1/2 millions in 1898. They come chiefly from Central America, Cuba, and the British West Indies.

THE SOUTH SINCE THE WAR.

In an address before the Virginia Polytechnic Institute yesterday, Mr. Richard H. Edmunds, editor of the Manufacturers Record, argued for self-reliance in southern education, and opposed the system of begging donations from the rich men of the country for southern educational institutions. It is not, however, with this argument that we are concerned, but with the tone of strong optimism which characterized Mr. Edmunds' address in its reference to the present and future of the southern states. That is a matter, indeed, in which the whole country is interested. A single paragraph from Mr. Edmunds' address is very striking in this quality of optimism.

"It is time to stop," he says, "crying poverty; it is time to realize what we have and to utilize our wealth for all our needs; it is time to stop being pessimistic. The pessimist has been described as a man who, having the choice of two evils, prefers to take them both, and this is what many southern people have been doing. Too long have we been pessimists. The wealth of the south today with its population of 25,000,000 is equal to the wealth of the United States with its 31,000,000 in 1860. The south is now mining six times as much bituminous coal as the United States mined in 1860. It is making six times as much pig iron, its output of oil is eighty times as great as that of the whole country then, its lumber output is more than double, its railroad mileage is twice as great, and its total wealth is over $10,000,000,000, against $1,600,000,000 for the whole country in 1860.

"This is indeed a brilliant showing. When it is remembered how pitiful was the condition of the south at the close of the civil war, how poor it was, how stripped it was of everything that makes for progress, it is marvelous that such a recovery could have been made in the forty years which have elapsed since the closing of the struggle, that today it may be said that the south is as great in wealth and prosperity as the entire United States was before the commencement of the civil war. This is a result creditable to the south but it is also a result of which the whole country may be proud. It is the outcome not alone of the energies and talents of the southern people, but of the enterprise of the whole country as well. Even the west cannot make a better showing than this. With one-sixth of the national wealth located in the southern states, the present prosperity of that section may be said to be one of the main dependences of this country for a revival of business activity in the near future. With this growth of wealth it may be said that the south is growing also in that sense of responsibility and conservatism which always accompany wealth. Therefore, the south may be depended upon in a large measure to second the efforts of the eastern and middle states, and the central west, for sober, conservative, as well as right thinking for financial improvement. Were it not for the race problem, it is probable, indeed, that the south would be divided politically the same as the north. Mr. Edmunds is entirely right in urging the south to be a leader, not a follower, and a burden bearer, not a burden shirker."

Suppose Bryan does talk in Wisconsin favoring his friend Bob? Can the democratic campaign managers complain? Bob has voted democrats so long that they own him now.

Fairbanks and Davis will be classed among the "also rans" after the great American handicap November 8th.

Dave Hill may have made himself boss of the democratic party but he has made himself more enemies than he had before.

Where is the dog catcher? Who is he? Why does he not begin his work?

PRESS COMMENT

Whitewater Register: Korosene has been a true Lady Bonifant to John D. Rockefeller—it made dollars grow like pig weed for him, and now it is making the hair grow on his shiny plate.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Judge Parker may have written his own platform, but he will be relieved of the necessity of writing an inaugural address.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Col. Watterson thinks "democratic victory in the air." Quite right, colonel.

La Crosse Chronicle: Bryan says he will bow to the will of the majority of his party. Pettigrew is out in an official statement to the effect that he will not. Gov. La Follette said he would rest his case with the people.

Green Bay Gazette: What a pity that La Follette cannot arrange the election the way they are conducted in Mexico. He would enjoy the way Diaz gets elected regularly without even an opposing candidate.

Menasha Citizen: An Appleton man says the only vacation he has had in twenty years occurred last week when his mother-in-law visited the World's Fair.

Menasha Record: Governor La Follette, the professional poor man's friend, is to stump the state in an automobile, the rich man's toy, given him by wealthy friends. Has the governor forgotten Tom Johnson and the majorities that followed his "red devil"?

Madison Journal: So far the political paragraphs have failed to make merry over the fact that Judge Parker was taking a bath when notified that the "unwashed" had nominated him for president.

Oshkosh Northwestern: La Follette for a year previous to the convention used every state official, every clerk and employee and the entire body of game wardens, oil inspectors and other appointees to secure his nomination. He left the capitol for weeks to "fix" ward causes, and, with the state central committee under his control, he caused conventions to be held in such succession that his body of appointees could travel from county to county to work in the caucuses, as attorneys go from one county to another to attend circuit court. No such pre-convention campaign was ever before held in the state of Wisconsin, and the official dignity of the governor was made a laughing stock before the public.

Superior Telegram: The Chicago American says that according to the Chicago directory that city has 22,241,000 people—mostly Johnsons. The rest of the Johnson family is quite largely represented at Minneapolis, Superior and Duluth. According to the best information we have at hand just now it happened that the committee which was giving out names finally had no more to give out and called all the rest of the people Johnson.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: That platform threat of a war against the trusts has a hollow sound in view of the circumstance that the friendship of the trusts for Parker and the promise of Wall street to make a contribution to the democratic campaign fund if he were nominated were the leading factors which won him the favor of the democratic bosses and placed him ahead of all rivals for the candidacy. For evanston, smugling frontier and cowardice the St. Louis platform of 1904 will hold a unique place among democratic national deliverances.

Appleton Post: As might have been expected, our friends who are always democrats under all circumstances, are trying to belittle the loss of the Chicago Chronicle to their party and their cause—a paper which had always been very able and will henceforth be even more notably so, now that it is on the right side. The attitude of our esteemed opponents in the premises is like that of the ungodly in Noah's time who, when the rains began to descend in fulfillment of his warning, importuned him to be taken aboard of his ark but who, upon being refused, heaped forth at the old prophet, "Go to the devil with your measly ship—'taint going to be much of a shower any how!"

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The record of the La Follette state administration, as shown by annual statement of receipts and disbursements, for the year ending June 30, is one of absorbing interest to the citizen and taxpayer. From an advance copy of this report it is learned that the total disbursements for the past year were $1,471,486.76 larger than they were four years ago, while the total receipts were $1,408,757.03 larger than they were four years ago. Thus the increase in receipts, due largely to heavy taxes paid by railroads and insurance companies, is easily outdone by the increase in expenditures. The figures for the four last years will afford an interesting study at the present time when reform methods are under discussion. One important feature of the last year's showing is that pertaining to game wardens and oil inspectors. It is estimated that about $108,000 was paid to these officers during the past year.

Dispose of Infected Milk. It has been discovered that milk declared unfit for sale in Manchester, England, and, therefore, disallowed there, is being sent regularly to London.

Sunflowers Make Good Fuel. Sunflowers make good fuel. The stalks when dry are as hard as wood, and make a good fire, and the seed-heads, with the seeds in, burn better than coal.

Wealth in Ireland's Bogs. Sir Richard Santley estimates that Ireland bogs contain the equivalent of 5,000,000,000 tons of coal, and he advocates creating power for varied industries by converting the fuel into electricity on the spot.

WERE HURLED TO ETERNITY

TERRIBLE DEATH AWAITED MR.
AND MRS. JOSEPH GREEN

AT SPRING BROOK CROSSING

Buggy Was Struck By Locomotive—
Mrs. Green Lived Half Hour—
Husband Died At 1:30

All Janesville was profoundly shocked this morning by the news of a terrible accident which occurred at the St. Paul crossing in Spring Brook. The passenger train from Chicago over the Janesville and Southwestern branch, due in the city at 10:30, was approaching McKee boulevard just as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Green who had slowly driven past the Hough Shale corporation factory attempted to cross the tracks in a buggy. Engineer George Kordele blew several shrill blasts of the whistle while there was still time for them to clear the track but they either did not hear, which hardly seems credible, or the horse in a mood of stubbornness refused either to back or go forward. In a moment the train, rushing along at a speed of twenty miles an hour was upon them. The pilot of the locomotive caught the front part of the rear wheel and hurled the vehicle and its occupants a distance of thirty feet. The horse, literally stripped of its moments, stood still for a few moments but fled towards the city as the train was brought to a stop and the passengers rushed to pick up the almost lifeless bodies that were lying near the interurban tracks some distance beyond the railroad tracks.

Died Before Reaching Home
Don Farnsworth was in his office in the shade factory and happened to notice Mr. and Mrs. Green as they drove by. A moment after they had passed the thought of the coming train which they would be unable to see until they had almost reached the crossing, flashed through his mind. He ran to the window and looked out just in time to see the locomotive hit the buggy from the track. Mr. Farnsworth leaped through the window and leaving word that the ambulance and physicians be telephoned for, hastened to the scene. He found Mrs. Green lying nearest the interurban track, breathing faintly but giving no further evidence of life. D. G. Sidenow, P. L. Mount, H. F. Bliss, and other passengers on the train arrived on the scene a moment later. Mr. Green attempted to raise himself up but felt back powerless as friends reached him. He was suffering untold tortures and was perfectly unconscious. Blankets and water were secured by Mr. Farnsworth and as gently as possible both were lifted and carried to one of the coaches. The passenger train reached the depot a few minutes later. As the ambulance had gone to the county house on another call it was necessary to press into service two of the United States Express wagons which were at the station. C. C. Crippen, Peter L. Mount, and Dr. Elden lifted Mrs. Green into one of these wagons and started for her home at 109 Pleasant street. They had not proceeded a block when she breathed her last.

Lived Three Hours
Mr. Green survived his wife a little over two hours. He was taken to the Palmer hospital and Mrs. Palmer, Woods and Penber worked over him until the last. They found that the pelvis bone had been crushed and a number of ribs fractured. There were some bad scalp wounds but the skull was not broken. Mr. Green remained unconscious almost to the last and was in terrible agony much of the time. Several times he asked why his wife did not come and was told that she was slightly hurt and could not reach his bedside. About one o'clock he began to sink rapidly and saline injections and other heroic measures brought forth no response. He died at half-past one o'clock.

Held in High Esteem
Mr. and Mrs. Green were old and highly respected residents of Janesville. Mr. Green was formerly one of the partners in the Green & Morris planing mill which stood where the present Jeffris mill is located. Later he was superintendent of the water power. During the construction of the new postoffice he acted as custodian. Of late he had been engaged in the real estate business. He was a member of W. H. Sargent post of the G. A. R. of the Modern Woodmen and Masonic orders. There are two children, Mrs. N. I. Taylor of Beloit, wife of the manager of the United States Express Co. there, and Joseph Green of Chicago. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

DAN LAVIN TO GO TO REFORMATORY

Chicago Boy Who Burglarized Delavan Railroad Station Sentenced In Court Today.

Dan Lavin, charged with stealing a gold watch in Janesville and breaking into the Delavan railroad station and stealing a number of tickets to St. Louis, had his trial in municipal court this morning. The boy's father and Officer Bonner of Chicago were present at the trial. The father said that his boy had been in the John Worthy school and the Dunning insane asylum in Chicago. He did not think he was in his right mind now. The boy, however, talked very rationally. He was sentenced to the reform school at Waukesha until he should be twenty-one years of age. He is now seventeen.

HESTA WALVIG TELLS HER STORY

Beloit Girl Accused of Forgery Says
A Beloit Boy Helped Her.

Hesta Walvig, the young woman who is charged with forging several checks and passing them on Beloit merchants, and who is now out on bail, is attempting to implicate others, and upon her accusations, Irving Reese was arrested and was before Judge Booth this morning. District Atty. W. A. Jackson was in Beloit today and asked the young man some questions, and then adjourned the case for one week, and Reese was given his liberty without bond. It is understood that Miss Walvig claimed that Reese assisted her in her forgeries, but on further questioning she repudiates these statements. The young man was made to do a little writing for the district attorney, and the sample of his penmanship thus secured was entirely unlike the writing on the checks which the Walvig girl is said to have passed. There seems to be little doubt but what the young man is innocent of her charges, and will probably be able to go free next week. Reese is the young man who found a dead of money some time ago and bought a motor cycle with a part of the money, and had to face a charge of theft.

Pronunciation Was Poor.

There is an amusing story of Lord John Russell, who once sat, at a large city dinner, next to a civic magnate. The latter took from his pocket a beautiful snuffbox and said: "This was given to my father by the first Napoleon; there is a hen on the top of it." "Surely," said Lord John, "it cannot be a hen, it must be an eagle." "No, no," said the magnate, "it's a hen," pointing as he did so to the "N" on the lid.

Great Britain Invites Attack.

Capt. C. Ross says in the United Service Magazine: "It is undoubtedly the case that Great Britain, the corner stone of the British empire, by reason of lack of efficient leadership, national organization and national discipline is not in a fit state to enter upon a struggle with any of the other nations of the first rank; and for that reason alone she invites attack."

Imitation Chocolate.

Testimony in an English court showed that there is no chocolate in cheap "chocolate" candy. A substitute consisting of an extract of cocoanut oil is used for the "cream" and the outside is made from the ground husks of the cocoa bean, sugar and sago.

Summer Religious Conferences.

The summer religious conference idea is spreading rapidly in all directions. The Episcopal church has planned a conference patterned on the Northfield and Chautauque lines to be held at Richfield Springs, N. Y., in August.

MRS. HIBBARD IS ON HER WAY HOME

Is Thought To Have Left Japan On Her Way To Janesville—May Arrive Very Soon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lowell are anxiously awaiting news of the safe arrival in San Francisco of Mrs. Hibbard and child, who are thought to have sailed from Yokohama, Japan, on June 28th for this country on board the Mongolia of the Pacific Steamship company. It will be remembered that Mrs. Hibbard's husband is to go to the front with the Y. M. C. A. service, following the Japanese army. Mrs. Hibbard recently called her mother to come to Japan instead of her coming home. However, Mr. Lowell called his daughter on the 26th of June to sail at once and it is thought that she sailed on the Mongolia which arrives in San Francisco. What makes it certain she will soon arrive in Janesville is the arrival of a letter to Mrs. Hibbard from her husband written two days after she sailed, which was delivered this morning having come by way of Vancouver by a fast mail ship. Mrs. Hibbard and her husband sailed for Japan immediately after their marriage two years ago. Mr. Hibbard is one of the Y. M. C. A. teachers who has taken up the work in Japan. It was recently decided that the Y. M. C. A. would send a tent to the front with the Japanese armies and Mr. Hibbard volunteered for the work.

SUGAR BEETS ARE DOING NICELY

LaFayette Myers Gives a Few Points
To The Growers of The Important Crop.

(By LaFayette Myers)
The past week has been hot and dry, excellent weather to kill weeds and grass. Some of the farmers have taken advantage of it, but we notice a number of fields where the grass and weeds are showing through quite thickly.

Right now is when the beets need all the nourishment and moisture that is in the ground themselves, and to those who have these weedy fields, we would advise them to clean them out at once or else their crop will suffer an injury. The tendency is to give up the work on the field too soon, and then when the grass and weeds have secured a foothold the farmer wonders why his crop is smaller at harvest time than he expected.

The prospects for a large crop of beets were never better than at present. The beet crop looks better than any other crop on the farm and already many are selecting their best ground for next season.

There is but little doubt that the next few weeks will be hot and dry and beets given the right attention now will be able to stand the strain nicely. Shallow cultivation now and plenty of it is just what is needed.

OBITUARY

Theodore Scofield
From the infirmities of old age, Theodore Scofield died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jas. A. Fathers, on Sunday, July 17th, 1904, at 8:20 o'clock p. m. Deceased was born at Fishkill, Dutchess county, New York, February 14th, 1819. In 1843 he came to Rock county and settled on a farm in the town of Center, on which he continued to reside until 1885 when ill-health of his wife necessitated his moving into Janesville, where better medical attention might be procured for her, but of no avail, as her death occurred in March, 1886. Theodore Scofield was married to Catherine Rogers in 1844; there are five children left to mourn the loss of a loving father, they being Mrs. J. M. Smith, Hattie Scofield, Mrs. Jas. A. Fathers and William T. Scofield of this city, and Henry Scofield of Carpio, North Dakota. Except Henry all were present at the last sad summons. Funeral Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Jas. A. Fathers, South Main street.

The Unknown Giver

A Story of an Easter Offering
By WALTON WILLIAMS

It was Palm Sunday. The first balmy spring day had come, and the lilac buds were bursting, displaying their tiny leaves. The flowers in the open air had not as yet shown any signs of life, but thousands were budding under glass preparatory to filling the churches on Easter Sunday. A young man and a girl were walking on a country road toward a spot that loomed in the distance above a clump of trees and from which a silver toned bell was summoning the people to the morning service.

"So you think, Ned," said the girl, "that you must give up your studies at the seminary and your plan of becoming a clergyman?"

"What can I do, Agnes? I have still two years of study before graduation and haven't a dollar in my pocket. I could make enough to keep me, for I can teach in vacation, tutor in term time and am quite sure of the Wilson scholarship. But mother needs every cent I can possibly earn, even giving all my time to money making. She not only needs her living, but, in the poor state of her health, the care of a doctor, comforts and delicacies."

The girl walked on without response. She knew what her friend said was ing you. Have you come to a decision as to what you will do?"

"No. We are not expected at the seminary till after Easter Sunday, and I shall decide on that day. The Lord will direct me."

"He will surely."

The young man left the church and joined Agnes Keith, who was waiting for him at the door. As they walked homeward Edward gave her the substance of his conversation with their minister. Birds were chirping in the trees lining the road, and an army of insects was crawling out into the sunlight. Youth, under the influence of the pleasant surroundings, stimulated both the young people to hopefulness. When they parted at the gate of Agnes Keith's home, she said:

"I am not sure but something may come of your interview with Dr. Wainright. He always does me well."

"And trust in the Lord."

"Yes."

"I will do both for a week and one forever. Nevertheless I am sure I shall not go back to the seminary."

Easter Sunday came, with the same beautiful weather. Edward called at Agnes Keith's on his way to morning service, and they walked to the church together. They avoided the subject nearest their hearts, Edward entertaining his friend with some facts of interest about the transformation of certain creatures, typifying immortality. They found the church, as usual, crowded with flowers and rejoiced in the exultant Easter anthems. The burden of Dr. Wainright's discourse was "sacrifice," dwelling especially on what the Christian owed to his church, mentioning among other duties that of helping young men to prepare them-and one of their number, an excellent young woman, somewhat fashionable and with a fortune. Edward, who was more interested in his work than in matrimony, at first resisted, but at last gave way under pressure and concluded to ask the lady to be his wife. He was leaving his study one afternoon to visit her for the purpose when the postman called and handed him a letter from his old friend, Dr. Wainright.

"I have often doubted," it read, "whether I have been doing right in withholding the name of the person who enabled you to enter the ministry. I have at last concluded to tell you, it being understood, as I have always said, that the gift was an Easter offering and cannot be returned. The donor was a woman who earned the money by teaching music and afterward by singing in church. Her name is Agnes Keith."

The Rev. Edward Granger started as if he had been shot. Rising from his chair, he looked at his watch, then started for a train for a neighboring city. When he arrived there in the early evening he drove to the house where Agnes Keith lived and was soon in her presence.

"Your Easter offering," he said, "has doubtless been acceptable to God, but the knowledge of it which came to me today has revealed my blindness and stupidity in so long letting slip a treasure. You made your offering to the Lord; give your heart to me."

"It has always been yours."

Edward Granger's congregation was shortly after surprised at the announcement of his engagement to a lady without their circle, living in a different city and making her own living.

WAS IT MURDER OR OR AN ACCIDENT

English Jury Fails To Find What Caused The Death Of The Unfortunate Man.

[Special by Scripps-McKee.]
Plymouth, Eng., July 18.—The American consul has been instructed to send the body of F. K. Loomis to America for interment.

The Inquest.
Thurstone, Eng., July 18.—The inquest into the death of F. Kent Loomis is this morning resulted in a verdict that he died of an unknown cause.

Is It Murder?
London, July 18.—It is understood the medical men who examined the body of Loomis are of the opinion the wound behind the ear was inflicted before his death. This supports the theory that Loomis was the victim of foul play.

Police Favor Murder Theory.
Police officials are nearly ready to abandon the accident theory and are now beginning to work on the hypothesis that Mr. Loomis was murdered on board the steamship and that his body fell or was thrown overboard near the Eddystone lighthouse. Joseph G. Stephens, American consul at Plymouth, in response to a telegram of inquiry asking him if the local reports of foul play had any basis, or if he had any ground for suspicion regarding the death of Mr. Loomis, replied:

Motive Puzzles Authorities.
"I regret I cannot make any statements prior to the inquest. The wound on the head back of the right ear is the size of a half dollar. The body is fairly preserved, especially about the top and back of the head, considering the time it has been in the water."

The question of motive is a puzzling one to the police. Clearly it was not robbery, for Mr. Loomis' watch, money and valuables were found in his pockets.

Credits Accident Theory.
Washington, July 18.—Mr. Loomis, assistant secretary of state, despite the reports from London that a severe wound had been found upon the head of his brother, Kent Loomis, continues to discredit the theory of foul play. Mr. Loomis adheres to the belief that his brother met death through an accident and will continue to think so unless the inquest should bring out something to the contrary.

BOY FIREMEN IN HEROIC ROLE

Lads Fight Flames in Institution
While Companions Escape.

New York, July 18.—Young boy firemen successfully fought a fire in the Roman Catholic Rectory at Van Ness, and when the real firemen arrived the flames were under control. While the lads worked with engine and hose 2,800 other boys were marching with military precision down the fire escapes. None was hurt. The damage to the institution is small.

RUSH TO ROSEBUD CONTINUES

Thousands Speed to Registration
Points in South Dakota.

Sioux City, Ia., July 18.—The rush to register on Rosebud land continues. Nearly 4,000 people passed through here Sunday on their way to Bonesteel, Fairfax and Yankton, the registration points in South Dakota, where tomorrow they will stand in line in the heat to get in on the registration.

Heat Causes Explosion.

Springfield, Ill., July 18.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of fireworks was destroyed in an explosion which wrecked the storage house of William M. Payne. The excessive heat is supposed to have fired the explosives.

Chant Hymn to Statue.

South Bend, Ind., July 18.—Sisters of St. Mary's academy to the number of 500 chanted a hymn to the virgin before the statue recently brought from Italy and placed in a niche in the new collegiate hall.

WATER PURIFICATION.

A Safe and Efficient Destroyer of Algae and Typhoid Germs.
By R. DENHAM, JR.

Washington.—Aside from water pollution due to germs which give rise to typhoid and other serious diseases, scientists recognize water contamination which, without being dangerous to health, renders the water offensive in odor and taste and unfit for use. In many cases troubles in water supplies are produced by algae, or vegetable growths, and not by injurious bacteria. Such annoyance in connection with water supplies is widespread. Among the complaints oftenest heard are that the water has a fishy taste and odor; that it tastes and smells like rotten wood; that the water is murky; that there is believed to be some decomposing animal body in it or dead fish. Sometimes water so affected becomes so repulsive that neither horses nor dogs will drink it. In some cases water will be very foul for six to eight weeks during the hottest part of summer. In others the special period of rank odor and taste may occur during the autumn. In others still it is a mild all the year matter. The necessity of finding some cheap method of preventing or removing algae contamination of cross beds first led the bureau of plant industry to investigate methods of securing purification of water.

Dr. Moore and Mr. Kellerman, who have been engaged in this research, have found that it is entirely practicable to cheaply and quickly destroy objectionable algae in small lakes, ponds, storage reservoirs and other similar bodies of water by the use of extremely dilute solutions of copper sulphate or of metallic copper. The fact that an extremely dilute solution (1 to 100,000) will also destroy the most virulent typhoid and cholera bacteria at ordinary temperatures in three hours is of great importance and significance. Solutions of copper as dilute as this are not considered injurious to man or other animals. It is stated by these investigators, however, in the report upon their work, that the use of copper sulphate for the prevention of disease is regarded as incidental and is not designed in any way to supplant efficient preventive measures now in use. It is believed, however, that up to this time no such satisfactory means of thoroughly, rapidly and cheaply sterilizing a reservoir have been known, since the copper sulphate is fatal to pathogenic forms peculiar to water, while beneficial bacteria are not affected by it.

It is unfortunate for the general public that these authorities find it necessary to emphasize the statement that "no rule for determining the amount of copper sulphate to be added can be given. Each body of water must be treated in the light of its special conditions."

Definite knowledge in regard to what organisms are present, the constitution of the water, its temperature and other important facts are considered necessary before it is possible to determine the proper amount of copper sulphate to be added. A microscopic examination thus becomes as important as a bacteriological or chemical analysis.

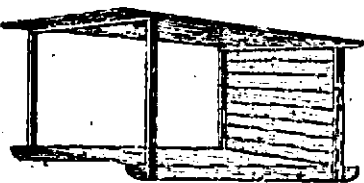

It is stated that the cost of material for exterminating algae will not exceed 50 to 60 cents per million gallons and will usually be less. The destruction of pathogenic bacteria requires an expenditure of from $5 to $8 per million gallons, not including the cost of labor.

The Trolley Carries Farm Produce.

Rockford, Ill.—Farmers in northeastern Illinois and the adjoining section in Wisconsin are making use of the electric roads to ship live stock, butter and eggs, vegetables and other products direct from their own farms to the Chicago market. They have sidetracks on which to load cars, and these cars are then run on to the main lines and through to destination. It is claimed that this is much cheaper than driving to market with teams. Rockford also is the center of several inter-urban lines, and trolley transportation for farm produce has become very popular among the farmers this season. In the pressure of farm work and scarcity of help it is a saving of the time and labor of men and teams and in other ways a great convenience for farmers to take themselves and their produce to town in this expeditious and easy fashion. As a consequence, the building up of the farm trade in this and other places which are trolley centers is evident.

Summer Shed For Live Stock.

The accompanying illustration, occurring in Orange Judd Farmer, shows a cheap shed for live stock to be used in lots during the very hot summer weather. It is constructed on runners, so that it can be moved from one lot to another without any trouble. The illustration is not correct in that the shed is floored. This of course can be done and in some cases may be desirable, but ordinary earth is the best bottom for anything of this kind. The shed is six feet high at the enclosed end and seven feet at the door end. It was made of ordinary boards. The runners are 2 by 6's, the cross-pieces 2 by 4's and the uprights 2 by 4's. The roof is ordinary one foot boards, with battens, and the rear the same. The shed should be placed so that the rear points toward the south. This furnishes much relief to animals during the heat of the day.

THE LAND OF TIBET

BEAUTY AND BARRENNESS IN STRONG CONTRAST.

Miles of Land Covered With Gorgeous ly Colored Flowers Followed by Desolation Indescribable—With the British Expedition.

(Special Correspondence.)

Before entering the bare, unsheltered plateau of Tibet the road to Lhasa winds through seven miles of pine forest which recalls some of the most beautiful valleys of Switzerland.

The wood line ends abruptly. After that there is nothing but barrenness and desolation. There are long strips of arable land on each side of the road and villages every two or three miles. The fields are terraced and enclosed within stone walls. Scattered on the hillside are stone built houses with low, overhanging eaves, and long wooden tiles, each weighed down with a gray boulder. One might imagine oneself in Kandersteg or Lauterbrunnen, only lofty praying flags and mantles brightly painted with Buddhist pictures and inscriptions dispel the illusion.

Two years ago I was in the Yantung valley, at the same elevation as the gorge below Gantsu, which I am now describing, and not a day's march from it. The ground was carpeted with flowers. Besides the primulas—I counted eight different kinds of them—and gentians and anemones and celandines and wild strawberries and irises, there were the rhododendrons glowing like coals through the pine forest. The rocks were coated with green and yellow moss, which formed a bed for the dwarf rhododendron bushes, then in full flower, white and crimson and green, and every hue between a dark reddish brown and a light sulphur yellow, not here and there, but everywhere, jostling one another for nooks and crannies in the rock.

Soon after this letter reaches you the transformation will have begun. The present cheerless conditions will have ceased. Instead of icy winds and a wintry landscape, there will be warmth and spring sunshine. Yet faint lies at home will be forming their impressions of the valley from letters written now by their friends now in the force. To disillusion them I cannot do better than to recall my impressions of the valley as I entered it in May two years ago. The valley had for me an intangible fascination, indescribable because it was illogical. Certainly the light that played on all these colors seemed to me softer than every-day sunshine, and the opening foliage of birch and larch seemed to me more delicate and varied than on common ground. Perhaps it was that I was approaching the forbidden land. But what irony that this seductive valley should be the approach to the most bare and unsheltered land in Asia.

Four miles from Chumbi the road passes through the second military wall at the Chinese village of Gohsorg. Chubby little children run out and salute one with the cry of "Bucksheesh," the first alien word in their infant vocabulary. The women of the valley wear a distinctive flat green cap with a red patch in front which harmonizes with their complexion, a coarse brick red, of which the primal ingredients are dirt and earth, erroneously called "pig" blood, and the natural rudeness of a healthy outdoor life in a cold climate. A procession of these sirens is comely and picturesque—at a hundred yards. A little further on the road is Gallinglin, a large Tibetan village where the praying flags are as thick as masts in a dockyard. Here one sees unwieldy wooden frames hanging from poles fifty or sixty feet high. They are used, we were told, for illuminations in festival time, but the general impression of the force after a good deal of conjecture was that they were cradles of correction for refractory children. A mile farther a sudden turn in the valley brings one to a level plain—a phenomenally flat piece of ground, where one can race two miles along the straight.

Gantsu, which lies five miles north of Lhasa, nearly half way between Chumbi and Phari, must be added to the map. A week or two ago the place was deserted and unnamed; it did not boast a single sow herd's hut. Now it is a busy camp, and likely to be a permanent halting place on the road to Phari. The camp lies in a deep moss-carpeted hollow, with the mountains above on the densely forested with pine and silver birch; on the fourth rises an abrupt wall of rock, which is suffused with a glow of amber light an hour before sunset. The Ammo Chu, which is here nothing but a 20-foot stream, frozen over at night, bisects the camp. The valley is warm and sheltered, and escapes much of the bitter wind that never spares Chumbi. After dinner one prefers the open-air and a camp fire. Officers who have been up the line before, turn into their tents reluctantly, for they know that they are saying good-by to comfort and will not enjoy the genial warmth of a good fire again until they have crossed the
